

GOVERNING PANDEMICS 101

SESSION 3 QUIZZES:

TREATIES AS A TOOL TO GOVERN PANDEMICS

QUIZ 1

1. What distinguishes a convention from a resolution? (Single Choice)
 - a. Only a convention is adopted by a diplomatic conference
 - b. Only a convention creates legally binding obligations to states
 - c. Only a convention addresses global problems that require action by all states
2. What is the role of a subsidiary body to the Conference of Parties (COP) to a treaty? (Single Choice)
 - a. To address specific issues related to the objective of the treaty under the authority of the COP
 - b. To prepare and service the meetings of the COP
 - c. To ensure that parties meet their obligations of international cooperation and exchange of information
3. Why can the Montreal Protocol on Substances that Deplete the Ozone Layer be considered the most successful UN treaty of all times? (Single Choice)
 - a. Because it is the only treaty to impose sanctions on parties that fail to comply with their obligations
 - b. Because it is the only treaty to have been ratified by all 198 UN Member States, and has effectively solved the problem it addresses
 - c. Because its COP adopted a particularly effective set of technical guidelines, developed by a subsidiary body in which industry representatives participated as observers

QUIZ 2

1. Would the proposed pandemic treaty be the first global health treaty adopted under the auspices of WHO? (Single Choice)
 - a. Yes
 - b. No
2. The pandemic treaty would require countries to individually opt-in through ratifications or similar procedures, while the IHR enter into force for all countries simultaneously, unless explicitly opted-out. (Single Choice)
 - a. Yes, this statement is correct
 - b. No, this statement is wrong
3. Which of the following potential treaty areas attracted most attention so far: (Single Choice)
 - a. Zoonotic spillover, One Health
 - b. Social and Economic Response